Ministry of Labour Occupational Health and Safety Management System ("OHSMS") Accreditation Standard

The Ministry of Labour ("MOL") is currently conducting a public consultation on a proposed Occupational Health and Safety Management System (OHSMS) Accreditation Standard. The aim of the MOL initiative is to provide a framework to recognize employers who successfully implement a Chief Prevention Officer (CPO) accredited OHSMS in their Ontario workplace.

The consultation is open until December 20th, 2017, those interested in providing comments are invited to visit the MOL consultation webpage at:

IHSA Boilermaker Trade Labour Management Health and Safety Committee Vacancies

The Infrastructure Health and Safety Association ("IHSA") Boilermaker Labour-Management Health and Safety Committee is currently looking for new management committee members.

The committee is composed of labour and management representatives from the trade who are engaged in advancing health and safety. The committee works closely with the Provincial Labour Management Health and Safety Committee, an advisory body to the Minister of Labour and recognized under section 21 of the Ontario Occupational Health & Safety Act. Attached is a document outlining the benefits of participation on the committee, frequency of meetings and location.

Interested contractors are invited to contact Mike Russo of the IHSA at mrusso@ihsa.ca.
